

Four Levels of Certainty

Room 9 does not predict. It separates what is happening, what is trending and what remains uncertain.

ALREADY HAPPENING

There is a working present-day application or documented example.

STRONG TREND

Repeated evidence points in a direction, not to a guaranteed outcome.

POSSIBLE SCENARIO

It is plausible, but should not be presented as an expected fact.

MAJOR UNCERTAINTY

There is not enough basis for reliable prediction. AGI is the clearest example.
